FAKER FLEECE BISHOP GIBSON

The police yesterday began a search for a man who was reported to be obtaining money on false pretense by representing himself as an official of the Firemen's Mutual Aid Society. Bishop Robert A. Gibson, of 936 Park Avenue, informed Assistant Fire Chief Wise that he had given a contribution of $5 to the man, who said he was R. E. Raymond. The bishop was anxious to know whether it was proper, and was informed that there was no person by the name of Raymond who was in any way connected with the society.

Chief Wise immediately reported the matter to police headquarters, and Detective Atkinson and Smith were assigned to the case. From Bishop Gibson they obtained a good description of the swindler. He is said to be between the ages of twenty-five and thirty years, tall, and possesses a remarkable case of manner.

When he called upon Bishop Gibson he made an effort to get $10, but the latter wrote him a check for $5. After Raymond had left, Bishop Gibson thought something was wrong, and communicated with Chief Wise.

As soon as it was found that the man was a crook, payment on the check was stopped. How much money the stranger has obtained is not known.

Raymond is said to represent himself as secretary of the society. L. S. Jones, secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners, is also secretary of the society, and no one by the name of Raymond is in any way identified with the department or society.

C. R. Burton, who was arrested several days ago on complaint of Henry Johnson, a visitor to the State Fair, who said he had obtained $10 from Raymond, was dismissed yesterday morning by Police Court.

Warren K. Robinson was dismissed from a charge of reckless driving and running over T. G. Thayer of Henrico County, on Tuesday. Mr. Thayer, who was slightly hurt, had Justice Crutchfield that the accident was more his fault than Robinson's.

PREPARE HISTORY FOR FIFTH CAVALRY

Committee Named at Annual Reunion—Officers Are Elected.

In order that the deeds of the Fifth Virginia Cavalry may be preserved for posterity while yet there are survivors who remember the details, it was decided last night at the annual reunion of the command, held at Murphy's Hotel, that a history shall be prepared. A committee was appointed to do the work, composed of Captain Peter J. White, of this city, and J. W. Minter, of Mathews County, with authority to associate with them any other survivors who may be in possession of information or who they may need.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Captain T. J. Davis, superintendent of the State Prison Farm, president; Captain P. J. White, Richmond, vice-president; Samuel C. Shields, secretary and treasurer.

The president was authorized to appoint a finance committee, composed of one member from each company of the regiment.

There was an unusually large attendance of the Sons of the Fifth Virginia, which organization meets annually with the veterans. H. O. Kerns, of Dinwiddie County, was re-elected president, and H. A. Tabb, of Gloucester, secretary and treasurer, while T. J. Davis, Jr., was made vice-president.

Seventy persons sat down at the banquet which followed the meeting. Congressman John Lamb responded to the toast, "The Fifth Virginia Cavalry." Rev. George W. McDaniel, D. D., spoke for the sons.

The roll of the Fighting Fifth was called, and several deaths recorded. Following are some of the survivors who answered to their names: T. J. Davis, Lassiter, John Tabb, Gloucester; A. W. Eastwood, King William County; P. J. White, Richmond; S. C. Shields, Richmond; W. C. Nunn, King William; W. J. Saunders, Henrico; Alexander James, Mathews; R. T. Howlett, Chesterfield; W. C. Brown, Richmond; B. L. Quarles, Henrico; J. W. Minter, Mathews; E. M. Clanton, Richmond; J. A. Chittum, South Richmond; J. M. Gould, Gloucester; R. F. Gwathmey, Norfolk County; G. W. Harris, Richmond; S. H. Walshall, Dinwiddie; Charles H. Hobday, Mathews; L. B. Quarles, Henrico; J. W. Harrison, Shackelford; T. W. Thrift, Gloucester; J. N. Hayden, Hard-

SOL. BERNSTEIN FINED IN COURT

Lowell Broughton, eighteen years old, of Spring Hope, N. C., was dismissed yesterday morning in Police Court on the charge of annoying Mrs. Sarah Bernstein. Sol Bernstein, her husband, who caused Broughton's arrest, was subsequently arrested on a bench warrant issued by Justice Crutchfield and fined $5 for assaulting and beating Broughton.

It was upon testimony of Mrs. J. W. Daniel, of 764 West Broad Street, that Broughton was acquitted and Bernstein punished. She said: "My husband and myself and Mr. Broughton and his sister, Miss Eva Broughton, who are visiting us, had been for a walk. Miss Broughton and I were walking ahead and the two men behind us. I was astounded when this man (pointing at Bernstein) came up and struck Mr. Broughton a terrible blow, knocking him down. No one had noticed this man or his wife. It was a shameful and unwarranted attack."

Bernstein said he had just come out of a confectionery store when he saw Broughton smiling at his wife, who had been waiting in the street for him. He promptly struck the young man, and later swore out the warrant for him.

When all evidence had been submitted Justice Crutchfield promptly freed Broughton and issued the warrant for Bernstein.

It was shown conclusively that Broughton was not of the Broad Street "masher" type.

Women Spend

Ninety per cent of the three hundred million that goes every year in the United States simply for household expenses. When we look at the amount in total it seems a very large one to pay the butcher and the baker and the candle-stick maker for everyday living expenses. We want the women of Richmond and Virginia to realize their part in the economical disbursement of the household expenses of the nation, and we will, in serving them with

VIRGINIA FARMERS FACING NEW ERA

Henry C. Stuart Tells of His Own Conversion to Modern Farm Methods.

FAVORS BUILDING AT FAIR

Should Be Devoted to Agricultural Exhibits—Rewards for Boys on Farm.

"Gone forever are the dark days of agriculture in Virginia. After forty years of hard times for the farmer, we have entered upon a new era." So said Henry C. Stuart last night, addressing an audience of farm demonstrators and others interested in agriculture, which crowded the floor of the Senate chamber.

Mr. Stuart indorsed in highest terms the work done by T. Q. Sandy and his men, who go about telling the farmer how to raise two blades of grass where one grew before. He also praised the work of Governor Mann in focusing attention upon agriculture.

As a director of the State Fair Association, Mr. Stuart pledged his best efforts to secure for exhibit purposes a building commensurate with the importance of the work being done by the demonstrators. He went further, and said he would do his best to rebuke the farmers a little more and "boastful of a little less."

The high cost of living, with the various remedies proposed, was the text of Mr. Stuart's address. He said the constant immigration, mainly of consumers, with the drift from the country to centers of population, resulting in an increase in the consuming class and a decrease in producers, was the real cause of the high cost of living. The solution was to increase the production of the producer.

"We know now," said Mr. Stuart, "that the yield of the average farm can be practically and profitably doubled. I would not say so if I had not done it myself. For many years I went along, content to grow bushels of corn and wheat, and then I found that wheat to the acre was doing far better than I. For years I had been following in the old paths, passing by the writings of men who were leading in new things as the work of theorists. Now, having learned better things, I make eighty bushels of corn where I made twenty before; I make twenty, twenty-five and even thirty bushels of wheat on land where formerly I made twelve to fifteen. Instead of one ton of hay to the acre, I have a yield of two and two and a half tons. All this is done with little increase in the cost of labor, so that I can get the additional corn, for instance, at a cost of ten to twelve cents the bushel."

Above all, however, Mr. Stuart placed the good of the boys. With machinery which has removed drudgery, there was no longer a good reason, in his opinion, why the boy should not earn his living in the field. "Instead of wearing a cap and a cigarette, let a gentleman and have more respect for himself. Let him co-operate with his father to get the best results from the land. It will mould his character, develop good habits, and he will make far more money than in city pursuits. It is high time we were teaching our boys that if they earn money in any way save by the sweat of their brow, they are not entitled to the distinction which the community has to offer. "Far better than a check for $100,000 when the boy becomes twenty-one is a good constitution, good morals, a love of the farm and a knowledge of how to make the most of it."

T. Q. Sandy addressed his forty-five demonstration agents briefly, saying that the fifty per cent better that he was getting from his farm was due to those of last year.

"I am more impressed, every day that I live," said Mr. Sandy, "with the importance of this work. I believe it to be the greatest work that ever touched the people of this State."

GOULD COMPANY NOT BEHIND BID

Anderson Denies That Lipper & Co. Are Secretly Acting for His People.

TELLS WHAT DIRECTORS DID

Resolution Instructed Officers Not to Seek New Franchise From City Council.

Nether the Virginia Railway and Power Company nor the Gould interests are back of the bid presented by Arthur Lipper & Co., of New York, for the proposed lighting and power franchise offered for sale by the city of Richmond at the request of the Richmond and Henrico Railway Company, according to Henry W. Anderson, vice-president and general counsel of the Virginia Railway and Power Company.

Before leaving for New York last night, Mr. Anderson was asked the direct question if the bid of the New York brokerage firm was presented on behalf of the interests he represents.

Mr. Anderson's statement, he said:

"The board of directors of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, at its last meeting, held on September 27, considered the matter of bidding on this franchise. I advised the directors that I had grave doubts of its validity, and a resolution was adopted by the board at that time directing that no bid be made on behalf of the company. I am also in a position to state positively that no one has been authorized to bid on behalf of Frank J. Gould. Mr. Gould has just arrived in this country and knows nothing of the situation, having left the whole matter in the hands of the directors. I can state positively that neither the board of directors of the Virginia Railway and Power Company nor the Gould interests have authorized any one to bid on this franchise for them."

Mr. Anderson added that he had heard of the firm of Arthur Lipper & Co. as a stock exchange house of good standing, but he had had no personal dealing with it and did not know members of the firm personally.

Only Two Bids Received

The pending franchise to use the streets and alleys of the city for distributing electric current was requested of the City Council nearly a year ago by the Richmond and Henrico Railway Company, a proposed draft being submitted by Samuel L. Kelley, its general counsel. A subcommittee on streets recommended a number of amendments and also that the Council seriously consider whether it is advisable to grant a second light and power franchise, thus leading to a duplication of plant and investment with the probability of later consolidation and increased charges to pay a return on the double capitalization. Most of the amendments recommended by the subcommittee, designed to protect the city and secure the actual construction of a plant by the party securing the franchise, were eliminated, and the proposed franchise ordered advertised once a week for four weeks as required by law. Bids were received by the Common Council last Monday night. Mr. Kelley bidding $10 for the proposed rights. Judge George L. Christian presented a certified check for $5,000 with a bid on behalf of Arthur Lipper & Co., bankers and brokers of New York. All papers were referred to the Committee on Streets which will probably set a date next week to hear all parties.

May Reject Any or All Bids

The city reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to amend the proposal and re-advertise for bids. Before the bids were received, Mr. Anderson announced that his company would not seek to buy the franchise, as he contends that it is defective in important requirements, and if granted in its present form, it will be contested in the courts.

But the production of an unexpected bid from outside sources led to the circulation of a persistent rumor that the New York brokers in one way or another represented the Gould interests, though their local counsel, Judge Christian, had stated that so far as he was informed they had no connection with the Virginia Railway and Power Company. Since the death of President William McWhorter, Mr. Anderson has been the active representative of the Gould interests in Virginia, and his emphatic denial is therefore from the highest possible sources.

New Company Investigated

Officers of the Richmond and Henrico Company admitted yesterday that they had heard of the rumor of a connection between the bid and the Gould interests, but they were unwilling to make any charge of which they did not have proof, and would therefore make no statement for publication. Both companies at present in the field desire the Committee on Streets, if possible, to find out the intention of Messrs. Arthur Lipper & Co., and who they represent—whether a third company is to be allowed to come into the field, encumbering the streets with three sets of poles, wires and conduits, or whether the franchise, if granted, is to be held as a mere paper asset for speculative purposes. It has been the contention of some members of the Street Committee from the start that the existing draft as advertised does not sufficiently guarantee the erection of a plant by the party to whom it may be granted, nor does it require the holder, in the event of its use, to serve more than a limited area in the center of the city.

AUTOIST FINED $100

Was Drunk and Driving on Wrong Side of Road. E. A. Abernathy, a merchant of Brunswick County, was fined $100 and costs yesterday morning by Police Justice Crutchfield for recklessly driving an automobile on the Free Bridge Tuesday night. Abernathy was drunk at the time.

A. W. Lord, who occupied a machine which Abernathy ran into and slightly damaged, testified that Abernathy was not exceeding the speed limit, but was driving on the left-hand side of the road.

All places where caution should be used in operating an automobile on a bridge is one where the driver should exercise every care," said Justice Crutchfield. "The testimony did not show you were driving slowly. I would sentence you to jail, I said you go and come."

WISE GUY LOST SCOREBOARD BET

Did Not Know That Service From Boston Ball Park Was Instantaneous.

Aside from what he might have lost on the game, it cost one man, who watched the electric scoreboard yesterday afternoon exactly $10. Claiming superior knowledge on all subjects, he announced that each play at Boston was flashed on the board anywhere from thirty minutes to an hour later. It did not occur to him that Snodgrass, the first man up for the Giants, had a light burning opposite his name at 2 o'clock, when the contest opened. But when he kept on talking somebody offered to bet him $10 that the service was practically instantaneous, and that somebody won. The man who sends each play as it is made sits at a telegraph key at the ball park. When the umpire calls "Strike one" that fact is instantly flashed. The wire runs through direct without relay, and when the lights read two strikes the player is still at the bat. That's how quick it is, a fact which was explained to the wise guy who lost the ten spot.

Moreover, the game yesterday ran for two hours and thirty-eight minutes. By twenty minutes to 5 o'clock the megaphone had announced that the game had been called, and the crowds were hustling away from Bank Street. Every man with ordinary intelligence understood, of course, that each play is received almost at the moment it is made. Time comparisons show that, and while it is wrong, boys to bet, another sucker might be sitting out on the limb this afternoon. It will be mighty easy to cut him down.

Some other people lost money last night by wagering that if the sunset in Richmond at 5:14 P. M. yesterday, it set in Boston a few hours in the morning, and the court clerks were about for a time, but by noon they had deserted. Streams of visitors poured through the corridors, piloted by Washington Williams, but with the exception of the Police Department switchboard operators in one corner and the Fire Department signal in the other, the city hall was vacant. Even City Clerk August took a portion of the day as a holiday.

CITY HALL DESERTED

Officials Obey Mandate of Mayor Aldine and Ward Five. Deserted even its most faithful adherents, the City Hall had an almost Sunday atmosphere of quiet yesterday. Mayor Aldine was at his desk for a few hours in the morning, and the court clerks were about for a time, but by noon they had deserted. Streams of visitors poured through the corridors, piloted by Washington Williams, but with the exception of the Police Department switchboard operators in one corner and the Fire Department signal in the other, the city hall was vacant. Even City Clerk August took a portion of the day as a holiday.
